RE: Moratorium on New Programs

At the January 17, 2002 Teacher Education meeting, the committee members discussed the lifting of the IPSB moratorium on submission of new programs for approval by institutions. The Board has approved a change in the unit assessment system approval process which now allows institutions to be able to submit programs once the UAS is submitted to the Division of Preservice Education on June 30, 2002.

Teacher Education Committee Recommendation:

Lift the moratorium on submission of new programs for approval for institutions, upon receipt of the institution's unit assessment system.
